More info...

The city health commissioner's campaign to post calorie information on fast-food and chain restaurant menus may leave the mayor with egg on his face, so to speak. That is the implication of information turning up in a lawsuit an association of restaurateurs is pressing against the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. The restaurateurs have unearthed evidence that the Centers for Disease ...

Hospital Volunteers: Hygiene stations installed; War declared against germs (The News-Press)

They're here and not a minute too soon. As of April 1, everyone became aware of Cape Coral Hospital's latest addition - public hand hygiene stations.
